Angels and Demons is a reality TV show with a twist. The Medianet Academy 2009 is your chance to decide what that twist is.

We're looking for 16 young Christians (or other young people interested in religion and the media) to produce a mock episode of Angels and Demons using video, audio and the web.

The Academy is a 3-day training course where you can learn new skills and get some great experience to put on your CV. You'll be trained by industry professionals as part of a multimedia team.

Training and accommodation are all provided free of charge; all you'd have to pay for are your travel and a £30 admin fee on registration.
