

A Sense of Respect workshop

Developing youth work across the faiths

If you are a youth worker involved in Interfaith work with young people – or want to be – come to this important workshop to be held on:

Saturday 1st March 2008, 10.00am-5.00pm

At

MIC Hotel and Conference Centre, 81-103 Euston Street, London NW1 2EZ

What you will get from the workshop:

- A free book A Sense of Respect offering ideas and resources for Interfaith work.
- A chance to hear from local projects who are working in this area.
- A chance to get up to speed with some youth work approaches that work well.
- A chance to flag up the work you are doing and network with others.
- A quality training experience with a good lunch.

The workshop is run by Maxine Green and Carmel Heaney who have considerable experience in this area. Carmel developed many of the resources in the book in the Corrymeela Community which offered reconciliation work between Catholics and Protestants in Northern Ireland.

The workshop is sponsored by the Department of Children, Schools and Families and is run jointly by The National Youth Agency and the Church of England.

Places are free but strictly limited, so please book early.

To book please complete and return the attached booking sheet to The NYA.

For more information please contact Maxine@isbd.co.uk